

PUBLIC COMMISSION ON LEGAL AID HEARING

It's not too late to participate

The Public Commission on Legal Aid is gathering feedback and recommendations from the public and community organizations on the future of legal aid in British Columbia. To encourage participation the Public Commission is travelling across the province and holding Hearings in several communities.

The Public Commission is visiting Nanaimo soon.

Public Commission Hearings are open and the community is invited to see and hear local presentations.

WHEN: Monday, October 4

WHERE: Vancouver Island Convention Centre
101 Gordon Street
The Lantzville Room

TIME: Hearings begin at 10:00 a.m. and end no later than 4:00 p.m.

Written submissions and in-person presentations will form the basis of a report that will be released to the public and delivered to the governments of British Columbia and Canada.

For more information on the Public Commission on Legal Aid, and how to make a submission, visit www.publiccommission.org.

Written submissions will be accepted until October 31, 2010
